in july 1988 the islamic republic of iran agreed to bring an end to the brutal eight year war with iraq over the next two months under the orders of supreme leader ayatollah khomeini political prisoners around the country were secretly brought before a tribunal panel that would later become known as the death commission they were not told what was happening and did not know that one wrong answer concerning their faith or political affiliation would send them straight to the gallows thousands of men and women were condemned to death many buried in mass graves in khavaran cemetery in the vicinity of tehran through eyewitness accounts of survivors research by scholars and memories of children and spouses of the deceased voices of a massacre reconstructs the events of that bloody summer over thirty years later the iranian government has still not officially acknowledged that they ever took place mass violence comes not only from states but also from people by analyzing mass violence as social interaction through survivor accounts and other sources this book presents understudied agents aims and practices of direct violence and ways of action of those under persecution sound history examining the noises of mass violence and persecution is particularly telling about such practices this volume shows that violence can become socially hegemonic and some people claim a freedom to kill as a political right to scrutinize indirect violence which is often imperialist in character and claims many victims the book proposes the concept of conditions of violence these conditions are produced by definable groups of actors and foreseeably harm definable groups which differs from the anonymous and static structural violence this is exemplified in a case study concerning famines in world war ii and another on covid 19 as mass violence less global in character other case studies in this volume deal with rwanda bangladesh east pakistan and the soviet union the author details the many confrontations and the factors leading up to the bear river massacre and the decline of the shoshoni frontier
