marcus gheeraerts's portrait of a persian lady probably in fact an english lady in masquing costume exemplifies the hybridity of early modern english culture her surrounding landscape and the embroidery on her gown are typically english but her head dress and slippers are decidedly exotic the inscriptions beside her are latin and her creator was an incomer artist she is emblematic of the early modern culture of exchange both between england and its neighbours and between europe and the wider world this volume presents fresh research into such early modern exchanges exploring how new identities subjectivities and artefacts were forged in dialogues and encounters between diverse cultures nations and language communities the early modern period was a time of creative interactions between cultures and disciplines and accordingly this is a multidisciplinary volume drawing together international experts in literature history modern and ancient languages and art history it understands cultural exchange as encompassing both the geographical mobilities of travel and trade and the transmission of ideas across borders and between languages as enabled by the new technology of print sites of exchange were located not only in distant and unfamiliar lands but also in the bookseller's shop and the scholar's study the volume also explores the productive and complex dialogues between early modern culture and the classical past the types of exchanges discussed include the linguistic transactions of translation and imitation interactions between cultural elites such as monarchs courtiers and diplomats and the catalytic influences of particularly mobile or outward looking individuals and groups ranging from the neo latin poetry of an english author to the plays of a nun in seventeenth century new spain from royal portraits exchanged in diplomatic negotiations to travelling companions in the ottoman empire the volume sheds new light traditional apocalyptic texts concern the advent of a better world at the end of history that will make sense of everything that happened before but what is at stake in the contemporary shift to apocalyptic narratives in which the utopian end of time is removed the contemporary post apocalyptic novel offers an innovative critical model for our cultural obsession with the end by focussing on the significance of time in the 21st century post apocalyptic novel and challenging traditional apocalyptic logic once confined to the genre of science fiction the increasing popularity of end of the world narratives has caused apocalyptic writing to feature in the work of some of contemporary literature's most well known fiction writers considering novels by will self cormac mccarthy david mitchell emily st john mandel jeanette winterson and others diletta de cristofaro frames the contemporary apocalyptic imagination as a critique of modernity's apocalyptic conception of time and history interdisciplinary in scope the book historicises apocalyptic beliefs by exploring how relentlessly they have shaped the modern world this richly detailed 1981 biography captures both the personal life and the scientific career of isaac newton presenting a fully rounded picture of newton the man the scientist the philosopher the theologian and the public figure professor westfall treats all aspects of newton s career but his account centres on a full description of newton s achievements in science thus the core of the work describes the development of the calculus the experimentation that altered the direction of the science of optics and especially the investigations in celestial dynamics that led to the law of universal gravitation
