the book criminal proceedings languages and the european union linguistic and legal issues the first attempt on this subject deals with the current situation in the jurislinguistic studies which cover comparative law language and translation towards the aim of the circulation of equivalent legal concepts in systems which are still very different from one another in the absence of common cultures and languages in criminal procedure it is possible to distinguish features that are typical of common law systems and features that are typical of civil law systems according to the two different models of adversarial and inquisitorial trials therefore the most problematic challenges are for the european union legislator to define generic measures that can be easily implemented at the national level and for the individual member states to choose corresponding domestic measures that can best implement these broad definitions so as to pursue objectives set at the european level in this scenario the book assesses the new framework within which criminal lawyers and practitioners need to operate under the lisbon treaty part i and focuses on the different versions of its provisions concerning cooperation in criminal matters which will need to be implemented at the national level part iii the book analyses the issues raised by multilingualism in the eu decision making process and subsequent interpretation of legal acts from the viewpoint of all the players involved eu officials civil penal and linguistic lawyers part ii explores the possible impact of the eu legal acts concerning environmental protection where the study of ascending and descending circulation of polysemantic words is especially relevant part iv and investigates the new legal and linguistic concepts in the field of data retention protection of victims european investigation orders and coercive measures part v globalisation has opened new avenues to corruption corrupt practices are proliferating not only within national borders but across different countries despite many national and international anti corruption bodies and strategies corruption far from being eradicated there is an urgent global demand for a better understanding of corruption as a phenomenon and a thorough assessment of the existing regulatory remedies towards the establishment of more effective and possibly uniform anti corruption measures our previous collection corruption in the global era routledge 2019 analysed the causes the sources and the forms of manifestation of global corruption an ideal continuation of that volume this book moves from the analysis of the phenomenon of corruption to that of the regulatory remedies against corruption and for the promotion of integrity corruption integrity and the law provides a unique interdisciplinary assessment of the global anti corruption legal framework the collection gathers top experts in different fields of both the academic and the professional world including criminal law eu law international law competition law environmental crime is a growing challenge for policy makers and law enforcers this is an important and timely study which examines in depth how environmental crime is treated at national level within the european union and the impact of the 2008 eu directive on environmental crime on national systems it will be required reading by anyone concerned with making environmental law more effective richard macrory emeritus professor university college london the aim of this important new collection is to explore how environmental crime is controlled and environmental criminal law is shaped and implemented within the european union and its member states it examines the legal framework looking in particular at directive 2008 99 ec and the specific competences of the eu in this domain in addition it provides a detailed analysis of environmental criminal law in seven member states focusing inter alia on the basic legislation the way in which environmental pollution is criminalised and the main actors in place to enforce environmental criminal law in so doing it provides a much needed explanation of the evolution of environmental criminal law in europe at union level and how this is implemented in selected member states
