the chronicles of two west african kingdoms presents a new reading of west african history from the fifteenth to the nineteenth centuries based on close analysis of arabic manuscripts from timbuktu and other regions this volume provides key historical context from the songhay empire through the caliphate of Ḥamdallāhi along with translations and arabic editions of the long obscured tāriḫ ibn al mukhtār in parallel with the later production known as the tāriḫ al fattāsh the central observation that emerges from these texts is that muslim scholars in premodern west africa who saw themselves as constitutive to the powerful kingdoms in the western sudan claimed almost unprecedented authority to shape reality through narration this volume presents two histories of the early korean kingdom of paekche trad 18 bce 660 ce the first written by jonathan best is based largely on primary sources both written and archaeological this initial history of paekche serves in part to introduce the second an extensively annotated translation of the oldest history of the kingdom the paekche annals paekche pon gi written in the chronicle format standard for the traditional official histories of east asia the paekche annals constitutes one section of the histories of the three kingdoms samguk sagi a comprehensive account of early korean history compiled under the editorial direction of kim pusik 1075 1151 although these two representations of paekche history differ markedly the underlying problem faced by both the twelfth century and the twenty first century historian is essentially the same fashioning a responsible encompassing and reasonably coherent history of the kingdom from meager and often disparate and fragmentary evidence included in the volume are 22 appendixes on problems in paekche history a concordance of proper names official titles omens and weights and measures a glossary of geographical names and six historical maps of the kingdom showing its changing boundaries
