Dr. Worden's book, a ministry recipient of the International Work Group on Death, Dying, and Bereavement's Herman Feifel Award, presents the highly anticipated fourth edition of Grief Counseling and Grief Therapy, the gold standard of grief therapy handbooks. The previous editions, translated into 12 languages, received worldwide acclaim for their sensitive, insightful, and practical approach to grief counseling. In this updated and revised fourth edition, Dr. Worden presents his most recent thinking on bereavement, drawn from extensive research, clinical work, and the best of the new literature. Key features include: the task model has been modified to account for new thinking and research findings in the field; including meaning-making, resilience, and continuing bonds; a new chapter on the mediators of mourning helps clinicians to understand what accounts for individual differences in adapting to the death of a loved one; looks at recent controversies in the field, including the best way to understand complicated bereavement and the efficacy of grief counseling and therapy; presents the vital distinction between grief and trauma; and highlights different intervention approaches for each. Comprehensive and highly organized, this text is useful to therapists just beginning to work in the field as well as seasoned practitioners.

The fourth edition of The Guide to Higher Education in Africa contains reliable and up-to-the-minute information on higher education throughout Africa. Over 900 institutions in 47 countries, plus details of national education systems and agencies, are in a single reference source.

Since the first edition of Integrative Approaches to Psychology and Christianity was published in 2004, this has become the standard textbook on the topic. Now in its fully revised fourth edition, Dr. Entwistle's book elucidates historical, philosophical, and practical issues in the integration of psychology and Christianity. As in previous editions, the current text provides an introduction to many of the worldview issues and philosophical foundations that frame the relationship of psychology and theology. It includes scholarly reflection on the integration literature and surveys six models of possible relationships between psychology and Christianity, ranging from those that are completely opposed to either religion or psychology to intermediate models that assert that some limited interaction between them is possible. Viewpoints which suggest that a Christian worldview approach can be used to provide a context for exploring areas of overlapping interest between psychology and Christianity are included. The current edition considers recent advances in both Catholic and Protestant thinking on integration, including contemporary questions about what evangelicalism is and is not, that shape evangelical reactions to the integration debate. New content ranges from information about the contrasting views of Tertullian and Augustine to insights from contemporary psychology about factors that adversely affect the quality and reliability of human thinking to how conflict over COVID-19 has entered contemporary religious debate. The book is designed to help readers become aware of the presuppositional backdrops that each of us brings to these issues. Questions at the end of each chapter are included to help readers evaluate both the material and their own burgeoning approach to integration. This book is ideal as a textbook for students of psychology and other behavioral and social sciences, social work, sociology, theology, counseling, pastoral counseling, at both the graduate and undergraduate level. It is also written for the broader readership of psychologists, counselors, pastors, and others who are interested in integration.
