the scramble for africa likewise called the partition of africa or the conquest of africa was the intrusion addition division and colonization of the majority of africa by seven western european powers during a brief period known as new imperialism the 10 of africa that was under proper european control in 1870 expanded to very nearly 90 by 1914 with just ethiopia abyssinia and liberia staying autonomous however ethiopia would later be attacked and involved by italy the book was written to broaden our knowledge of african history understand europeans activities in africa prior independence know why africans are still attached to european understand why africa still remains third world countries this general history of modern africa has been revised and updated to take full account of the fresh perspectives on african history brought about by the end of the cold war this book entitled from the colonization of america to the partition of africa is a book that covers the modern and contemporary history of europe america and africa it's about the conquest and subsequent colonization of america and africa from the era of discovery to the emergence of decolonization after the end of the second world war the colonization of africa by european powers began with the manor conquest of the canary archipelago that began in 1402 by the castilian nobility and the conquest of ceuta in 1415 by the portuguese crown however after the discovery of america in 1492 these first european colonizers spain and portugal lost interest in the african continent although the portuguese established trading posts along all the atlantic coasts of africa to the indian ocean after the decline and fall of the empires of the modern age between 1763 and 1825 as a result of territorial losses of european powers in america these powers then turned their attention to africa in search of new territories for their expansion and new markets for their economic growth the five powers involved were spain portugal france great britain and the netherlands although this last country left the colonial race at the end of the nineteenth century after it ceded its last african territory the netherlands gold coast to the great britain under the anglo dutch treaty of 1871 in 1763 france ceded its vast territory in america to england after its defeat in the seven years war in 1783 england recognized the independence of the usa losing that territory between 1810 and 1825 spain lost all its american colonies except cuba and puerto rico and in 1822 portugal lost brazil after the latter declared its independence from the former each of these four powers will constitute its second empire marking the beginning of new imperialism and will fight to acquire territories in africa so as to be able to constitute new empires this would lead to the convening of the berlin conference between 1884 and 1885 where the powers including new powers like the german empire would decide on how to share up africa however this contemporary colonialism will come to an end after the end of second world war when the united nations general assembly institutionalized the committee of decolonization to end colonialism jude efe egharevba the partition of africa was an invasion of the continent of africa by european nations including the united kingdom of great britain and northern ireland yes the united kingdom wanted to rule the whole world and it nearly did as can be seen on the globe on how many countries were under the british empire this was done to enrich the united kingdom with no regard to whoever found them in those regions of the world this was done without the consultation of the africans who occupied the land as to the african continent this was the occupation of our land by the british and its division into their colonies the british people of the united kingdom were ahead of many countries in this act william gladstone the prime minister of the united kingdom was given the power to sign a peace treaty the peace treaty with whom the africans were never in agreement with whatever came out of the so called berlin conference of the 1884-1885 africans were not considered or allowed to have their views heard or have an input as to what was being decided to happen in their motherland africa this treaty was done in germany since it had emerged as an imperial power under chancellor otto von bismarck it was formalized and agreed upon that the scramble for africa should go ahead without the consultation of the african people who owned and lived in africa all african autonomy was eliminated and overridden so to speak through devious means africa was stolen and possessed and its people were enslaved and reduced to the untold indignity by the foreign powers
