this book analyzes the interaction of european social models the institutions structuring labor markets supply side and their turbulent macroeconomic environment from the deep europe wide recession ending germanys post unification boom through monetary union s establishment to the great recession following the recent financial crisis the analysis reaches two conclusions challenging the dominant view that the social models caused unemployment by impairing labor markets efficiency in the name of equity first the social models employment and distributive effects are far outweighed by their macroeconomic environment especially in the eurozone where its truncated structure of economic governance transformed the great recession into a sovereign debt crisis second instead of a trade off between efficiency and equity the employment effects of counteracting markets tendency to generate inequality depends on the macroeconomic conditions under which it occurs and how it is done the protestant church in the netherlands dutch protestantse kerk in nederland abbreviated pkn is the largest protestant christian denomination in the netherlands this volume marks the 10th anniversary of the denomination which occurred on may 1 2014 the book outlines the long history that preceded the unification and the developments that occurred during the first decade of the church s existence furthermore contributors from other countries share the stories of their united churches their contributions enrich the picture of what church unification may entail thus the book contributes to the field of ecumenical theology additionally theologians from different backgrounds share some reflections on the issues raised by the book s articles series church polity and ecumenism global perspectives vol 4 subject religious studies history ecumenism the fiftieth anniversary of the bretton woods conference served as an opportunity to reappraise the desirability of strengthening the imf s oversight of the functioning of the international monetary system whatever the design of an exchange rate system and the arrangements for the provision of international liquidity it is widely accepted that to be effective such oversight must rest on a strong analytic foundation these two volumes edited by jacob a frenkel and morris goldstein present 30 analytic papers on the system as it functioned during 1987 91 and aim at conveying the flavor of those issues that commanded close attention in the fund s research program this book presents a comprehensive overview of adult learning systems als in post industrial market democracies situating them within historically and spatially comparative contexts it illustrates the diverse ways in which different systems have responded to the shared and specific challenges involving organised adult learning a comparative analysis of the evolution of UK and German broadcasting policies adding to the developing area of comparative research on media and communications policy the book focuses on processes of marketization and liberalization as they have affected policy making national regulatory frameworks and media structures this volume presents a collection of in depth cross varietal studies on a broad spectrum of grammatical features in English varieties spoken all over the world the contributions explore the structural unity and diversity of new Englishes and thus investigate central aspects of dialect evolution and language change moreover this volume offers new insights into the question as to what constrains new dialect formation and examines universal trends across a wide range of contact situations the contributions in this volume further study the possibilities and limitations of quantitative and qualitative corpus analyses in comparative studies of new Englishes and exemplify novel approaches e.g. the contribution of syntactic corpus annotation tagging and parsing to the description of new English structures the use and limitations of web derived data as an additional source of information and the possibility to complement corpus data with evidence from sociolinguistic fieldwork terrorism remains one of the major threats facing the world community while literature on the subject is dominated by discussion of the factors leading individuals and groups to join violent extremist terrorist groups the question of what can lead them to disengage from such groups is an equally important one this book is the first study to provide a detailed analysis of both counter radicalization and deradicalization programmes in eight Muslim majority states representing hitherto one of the largest detailed and most systematic inventory of such programmes in the world drawing on detailed case studies from a number of countries the book traces the historical evolution of violent extremist groups and individuals in each country case study including the period before independence describes in detail states response to this phenomenon in each period provides important empirical analyses for counter and deradicalization policies and programmes based on extensive fieldwork and interviews with state officials former radicals and members of civil society organizations in each country provides a first systematic evaluation of the effectiveness and success of these programmes and policies focuses simultaneously on factors that have led to deradicalization at an individual or organizational level and on the macro environment both external global and internal that encourages counter radicalization and deradicalization of groups and individuals the detailed comparative analyses allow the reader to identify conditions both internal and external which are conducive to both success and failure of counter radicalization and deradicalization programmes and the authors identify best practice and provide policy implications for states facing threats from violent extremism as well as for international institutions and organizations working in the field of counter terrorism the classic national security concerns of nuclear proliferation and the production sale and use of weapons of mass destruction cannot be addressed in the korean peninsula without at the same time considering the implications and interrelationship of what are these days known as the human security issues of food poverty and perhaps more controversially freedom we agree that east asia and the world are more dangerous with the democratic people s republic of korea the dprk or north korea in possession of nuclear weapons it is also argued however that a comprehensive security analysis identifies many equally significant threats to regional security such as the risk from industrial and nuclear accidents and the potential for transborder crime arising from the lack of legal and productive avenues for economic activity for north korea s poverty stricken citizens in this book korea soft security issues are as important as hard security matters and that the latter cannot be understood or its dilemmas unravelled without a clear engagement with the former this book looks at korean security dilemmas from the perspective of the various international actors not just from the viewpoint of the major protagonists the dprk and the united states we show that different states and international organizations have different and multiple interests in their relationships with the dprk and with each other north korea's nuclear weapons and ballistic missile programs have drawn international attention for years in the early 1960s pyongyang began to pursue the capability to produce advanced weapons systems including rockets and missiles however foreign assistance and technology particularly from china and the soviet union were instrumental in the acquisition of these capabilities the ballistic missile inventory now totals about 800 road mobile missiles including about 200 nodong missiles that could strike japan in april 2007 north korea for the first time displayed two new missiles a short range tactical missile that poses a threat to seoul and u s forces in south korea and an intermediate range missile that could potentially strike guam although north korea has not demonstrated the ability to produce a nuclear warhead package for its missiles its missiles are believed to be capable of delivering chemical and possibly biological munitions north korean media and government officials claim the country needs a nuclear deterrent to cope with the hostile policy of the united states but pyongyang has never officially abandoned its objective of completing the revolution in the south little is known about north korean military doctrine and the role of its ballistic missiles but national defense commission chairman kim chŏng il has ultimate authority over their disposition since 2000 the united nations economic commission for europe unece has coordinated the generations and gender programme which combines data collection with analysis of demographic trends and the roles of different factors that influence them that of public policy in particular this volume contains the keynote papers and a summary of contributions to the conference on how generations and gender shape demographic change held in geneva in may 2008 as well as the conceptual background note and the conference report it aims to disseminate the conference proceedings to a wider audience thereby inspiring broader debate recent european data suggest that many more people of reproductive age would like to form families and have children than actually do so and many parents would like to have more children than they have what role should public policy play regarding these issues should reconciling work and family life be the main avenue of policy concurrent with lower birth rates european populations are ageing which requires adaptation across all spheres of society what are the best policy responses to these demographic trends and how can research better support finding them this volume provides a unified framework for the analysis of short and medium run macroeconomics it develops a core new keynesian macro model based on imperfect competition and nominal rigidities and shows how this compares with alternatives
