our purpose in writing this book is multifaceted first this book aims to present a clear understanding of going concern valuations at the same time resolving the current misrepresentations surrounding the issue additionally this book offers a new set of rules readers can use to determine which property types qualify as going concern valuations and which do not this book presents an understanding that in performing a going concern valuation of properties which are perceived to have a business component it may not be possible to segregate allocate or value the components individually for example when appraising the going concern value of a motel with occupancy of 75 it could be argued and possibly proven that there is a value that can be separated from the overall value or going concern value to the business component on the other hand however appraising that same motel with only 40 occupancy presents a completely different set of circumstances that could easily draw completely opposite conclusions it simply may be a lack of sufficient tools or data to argue and prove that the business component in fact has value separate from the real estate to do so with authority is tantamount to ignorance or arrogance we have worked hard to update business communication from its 12th edition to its 13th we have added new content that instructors have asked for such as examples of business plans and sales proposals and elaborated discussion of social media use for business we ve updated content particularly in relation to communication during the covid 19 pandemic we have painstakingly cut repetitious content streamlining each section within each chapter so that it makes its point clearly and efficiently we have also reorganized regrouping like with like so that students can more readily find the content they need we ve also used singular they them and their as generic third person pronouns when the pronoun referent is indefinite for example everyone and when a person s gender is unknown in accordance with apa style and we ve simplified the page layout eliminating unnecessary design elements such as horizontal lines before and after bulleted lists in short we have overhauled the textbook to create a modernized and elegant 13th edition
