education in the arts principles and practices for teaching covers the teaching of visual art drama dance and music in primary and early childhood education within the context of integrated creative arts education it links theory and research to teaching practice and allows teacher education students to apply what they have learned to new contexts it encourages reflection upon teaching practice through real case studies and provides direction for considering what it means to be an arts education teacher in a school rather than an art music or drama specialist the text is a valuable resource for both students and teachers with guidance on how to implement the various arts practices in a school setting the joint production of paintings by more than one artist was not uncommon in the past a number of old masters had assistants do much of the work on their paintings executing images that had been planned by the master yet prior to the twentieth century very few paintings were actually signed by more than one artist early in the twentieth century many important conceptual artists occasionally co authored paintings or drawings but consistent co authorship of paintings sculptures and photographs is a practice that is novel to the late twentieth century these recent instances have generally involved pairs of conceptual artists the english team gilbert and george is the most important pair that has consistently produced co authored works they have executed all of their work jointly since 1969 when they made singing sculpture their first and most famous piece a number of pairs of young conceptual artists had worked closely together earlier in the century but they did not formally co author their work perhaps because of the art world s commitment to the ideal of the autonomous artist since the critical and economic success of gilbert and george has demonstrated that this resistance can be overcome co authorship has become more common among younger conceptual artists and this trend is likely to continue in future
