in kites the art of using natural materials john browning shows how he uses natural materials to make beautiful kites kites that fly in the book browning balances the visual appeal of nature s riches with the universal appeal of kites their ephemeral lightness tethered to the

kite flyer s desire to be air borne defying the pull of earth s gravity this combination of beauty and practicability is evident in the colourful images which inform as well as delight of kites both fixed and in flight throughout the book the images demonstrate how the different shapes colours and textures of natural materials have been transformed by browning into fragile yet flight worthy structures that appeal to the mind to the eye and to the imagination this book filled with colourful images shows many examples of natural materials leaves plants trees paper and bamboo and how they have been brought together to create the kites conceived as works of art constructed as kites and realized as flying structures
