based on detailed notes taken during a doctor's incarceration in the concentration camps and ghettos of Romanian-ruled Transnistria during the Holocaust, this memoir tells a gripping story of calculated murder, resistance, and survival in the aftermath of the Romanian Holocaust. Transnistria, a little-known region north of Odessa between the Dniester and Bug rivers, came to be known as the forgotten cemetery. Between 1941 and 1944, an estimated 300,000 Jews were killed or died there from starvation and disease. This memoir by Dr. Arthur Kessler, based on daily notes he kept as a physician during his two-year imprisonment in Transnistria's Vapniarka concentration camp and Iqopol ghetto, provides a unique perspective of a Jewish medical doctor who witnessed murderous death as well as brave acts of resistance and survival. Introduced and annotated by historian Leo Spitzer and translated from German by the late Margaret Robinson, Dr. Kessler's memoir provides an engrossing account of his infamous discovery that Vapniarka's Romanian authorities routinely and it seems knowingly fed camp inmates a daily soup containing toxic chickling peas (Lathyrus sativus) that induced paralysis, kidney failure, and oftentimes death. It reveals the daring by which he, together with fellow inmate medical associates, saved hundreds of lives by organizing a hunger strike that resulted in the camp's dissolution and the prisoners' relocation to ghettos throughout Transnistria. Kessler's narrative continues with an account of privileges attainable by deportees with useful skills and provides illuminating details about informal systems and practices that enabled many to survive and to provide care to fellow victims of genocidal persecution. The memoir is illustrated with moving drawings produced by prisoners in the Vapniarka concentration camp and presented to Dr. Kessler in recognition of his brave work of healing.

In the summers of the early 1970s, Morris Ardoin and his siblings helped run their family's roadside motel in a hot, buggy bayou town in Cajun Louisiana. The stifling, sticky heat inspired them to find creative ways to stay cool and out of trouble when they were not doing their chores: handling a colorful cast of customers, scrubbing motel room toilets, plucking chicken bones, and using condoms from under the beds. They played Canasta, an old ladies game that provided them with a refuge from the sun, and helped them avoid their violent, troubled father. Morris was successful at occupying his time with his siblings and the children of families staying in the motel's kitchenette apartments but was not so successful at keeping clear of his father a man unable to shake the horrors he had experienced as a child and later as a soldier the preteen would learn as he matured that his father had reserved his most ferocious attacks for him because of an inability to accept a gay or to his mind broken son it became his dad's mission to fix his son and morris's mission to resist and survive intact he was aided in his struggle immeasurably by the love and encouragement of a selfless and generous grandmother who provides his story with much of its warmth wisdom and humor there's also suspense awkward romance naughty french lessons and an insider's take on a truly remarkable not yet homogenized pocket of american culture
