this book focuses on the subject of choice of law as a whole and provides an analysis of its various rules principles doctrines and concepts it offers a conceptual account of choice of law called choice equality foundation cef which aims to flesh out the normative basis of the subject the author reveals that despite the multiplicity of titles and labels within the myriad choice of law rules and practices of the u s canadian european australian and other systems many of them effectively confirm and crystallize cef s vision of the subject this alignment signifies the necessarily intimate relationship between theory and practice by which the normative underpinnings of cef are deeply embedded and reflected in actual practical reality among other things this book provides a justification of the nature and limits of such popular principles as party autonomy most significant relationship and closest connection it also discusses such topics as the actual operation of public policy doctrine in domestic courts and the relation between the notion of international human rights and international commercial dealings and makes some suggestions about the ability of traditional rules to cope with the advancing challenges of the digital age and the internet

the power of choice empowers strength in change our daily beginning is an instinctive reaction we wake to start our day what we do throughout each day involves multiple choices some we will find are painful and difficult to make yet vital to our daily progression as you read this book it is my hope that you understand there are consequences for every choice you make this book is designed to help you evaluate the choices that occupy vital space in your mind at our end an uncontrollable event we will leave our space for friends and loved ones to memorialize it is my sincere hope and prayer that lessons learned in my book will catapult you from being and existing to living growing and achieving some say that private law ought to correct wrongs or to protect rights others say that private law ought to maximise social welfare or to minimise social cost in this book emmanuel voyiakis claims that private law ought to make our responsibilities to others depend on the opportunities we have to affect how things will go for us drawing on the work of hla hart and tm scanlon he argues that private law principles that require us to bear certain practical burdens in our relations with others are justified as long as those principles provide us with certain opportunities to choose what will happen to us and having those opportunities is something we have reason to value the book contrasts this value of choice account with its wrong and social cost based rivals and applies it to familiar problems of contract and tort law including whether liability should be negligence based or stricter whether insurance should matter in the allocation of the burden of repair how far private law should make allowance for persons of limited capacities when a contract term counts as unconscionable or unfair and when tort law should hold a person vicariously liable for another's mistakes a boy describes his school bus as a big yellow monster that gobbles up students and takes them to school bringing together a global team this stimulating volume provides fresh perspectives on choice a key notion in systemic functional linguistics in of liberty and necessity james a harris presents the first comprehensive account of the free will problem in eighteenth century british philosophy harris proposes new interpretations of the positions of familiar figures such as locke hume edwards and reid he also gives careful attention to writers such as william king samuel clarke anthony collins lord kames james beattie david hartley joseph priestley and dugald stewart who while well known in the eighteenth century have since been largely ignored by historians of philosophy through detailed textual analysis and by making precise use of a variety of different contexts harris elucidates the contribution that each of these writers makes to the eighteenth century discussion of the will and its freedom in this period the question of the nature of human freedom is posed principally in terms of the influence of motives upon the will on one side of the debate are those who believe that we are free in our choices a motive these philosophers believe constitutes a reason to act in a particular way but it is up to us which motive we act upon on the other side of the debate are those who believe that on the contrary there is no such thing as freedom of choice according to these philosophers one motive is always intrinsically stronger than the rest and so is the one that must determine choice several important issues are raised as this disagreement is explored and developed including the nature of motives the value of indifference to the will's freedom the distinction between moral and physical necessity the relation between the will and the understanding and the internal coherence of the concept of freedom of will one of harris's primary objectives is to place this debate in the context of the eighteenth century concern with replicating in the mental sphere what newton had achieved in the philosophy of nature all of the philosophers discussed in of liberty and necessity conceive of themselves as experimental reasoners and when examining the will focus primarily upon what experience reveals about the influence of motives upon choice the nature and significance of introspection is therefore at the very centre of the free will problem in this period as is the question of what can legitimately be inferred from observable regularities in human behaviour equity crowdfunding is a new way for seed stage start ups to generate initial capital and as such raises questions around the choices made by investors within this area understanding it is important for investor protection as investors are generally unaware of the factors that can influence their decisions however investing in equity crowdfunding places the investor in a unique decision making framework in which resources such as images videos and storytelling are all mobilized by entrepreneurs and platforms as tools of persuasion this context thus seems to favor more holistic and emotional decision making rather than a process that is rational and analytical this first volume centers on the emotional and axiological determinants of choice a transdisciplinary theoretical analysis is carried out combining different fields within the social sciences primarily finance marketing and psychology this state of the art leads to the emergence of an original theoretical framework for understanding investment choices in equity crowdfunding
