series in 1962 with chinua achebe as the editorial adviser africa writes back the african writers series and the launch of african literature captures the energy of literary publishing in a new and undefined field portraits of the leading characters and the many consultants and readers providing reports and advice to new and established writers make africa writes back a stand out book james currey s voice and insights are an added bonus contents publishing and selling the african writers series the african writers series portfolio george hallett s covers main dates for the african writers series introduction the establishment of african literature publishing chinua achebe 1 writers from west africa nigeria the country where so much started negritude from senegal to cameroun magic realism from ghana the gambia sierra leone 2 writers from eastern africa towards the oral the popular in kenya uganda tanzania publishing ngugi 3 writers from the horn north eastern africa emperors in ethiopia publishing nuruddin farah arab authors in egypt sudan 4 writers from south africa resistance in south africa publishing alex la guma publishing dennis brutus publishing bessie head publishing masizi kunene 5 writers from southern african guns guerrillas in mozambique angola zambia shall be free death detention in malawi the struggle to become zimbabwe publishing dambudzo marechera conclusion is there still a role for the african writers series in recent years the material circumstances governing the production of african literature have been analyzed from a variety of angles this study goes one step further by charting the trajectories of a corpus of francophone african sub saharan narratives subsequently translated into english it examines the role of various institutional agents and agencies publishers preface writers critics translators and literary award committees involved in the value making process that accrues visibility to these texts that eventually reach the anglo american book market the author evinces that over time different types of publishers dominated both within the original publishing space as in the foreign literary field contingent on their specific mission be it commercial ideological or educational as well as on socioeconomic and political circumstances the study addresses the influence of the editorial paratextual framing pandering to specific western readerships the potential interventionist function of the translator and the consecrating mechanisms of literary and translation awards affecting both gender and minority representation drawing on the work by key sociologists and translation theorists the author uses an innovative interdisciplinary methodology to analyze the corpus narratives originally published in 1982 this book explores concepts such as traditional performance and african theatre it analyses the links between drama and ritual and drama and music and diagnoses the confusions in our thought the reader is reminded that drama is never merely the printed word but that its existence as literature and in performance is necessarily different the analysis shows that literature tends to replace performance and drama removed from the popular domain becomes elitist the book's richness lies in the constantly stimulating analysis of art theatre as exemplified in protest plays in african adaptations and transpositions of such classical subjects as the bacchae and everyman in plays on african history on colonialism and neo colonialism the final chapters argue that the form of african drama needs to evolve as the content does here is an introduction to the history of english writing from east and west africa drawing on a range of texts from the slave diaspora to the post war upsurge in african english language and literature from these regions this book explores how writers such as amos tutuola george lamming samuel selvon vs naipaul chinua achebe derek walcott kamau brathwaite and wole soyinka came to be published in london in important educational series such as the three crown series and african writers series low takes account of recent debates in the discipline of book history especially issues that deal with social cultural and economic questions of authorship publishing histories canon formation and the production distribution and reception of texts in the literary market place searching publishing archives for readers reports editorial correspondence and interventions this book represents a necessary exploration of postwar publishing contexts and the dissemination of texts from london that is crucial to literary histories of the postcolonial book taken together as a postwar generation this cohort of now canonical writers helped imagine their respective national communities yet their intellectual labors entered an elite transnational literary circuit and correspondingly were transformed into textual commodities by the economic social cultural and institutional transactions that were part of an expanding print capitalism
