encounters with a multicultural Britain in the Tudor and Stuart periods written with an eye to debates about immigration and ethnicity in today's Britain this book recovers the encounter with a multicultural Britain by British travellers in the Tudor and Stuart periods when William Camden writing in the sixteenth century set out to write the history of Britannia he deliberately took to the roads to discover it first hand and those diverse cultures guided and informed his journeys here John Cramsie offers original perspectives on Camden's multicultural Britain through the study of British travellers and their narratives we meet characters such as the Tudor traveller John Leland who intended to tell the peoples of England and Wales about themselves chronicle how they came to settle the towns villages valleys and mountaintops they called home record the marks they left in the landscape and celebrate the noble histories and cultures they created dozens eventually hundreds of Britons shared the same passion to meet their island neighbours and relate their experiences the individuals studied in this book include actual as well as armchair travellers and those who blurred the boundaries between them their letters diaries journals and histories range from the epic poignant and matter of fact to the exotic preposterous and hateful the sources include actual and imaginative narratives and those which combined both elements travellers painted Britain with in Leland's words native colours that were rich vibrant and above all complex their remarkable journeys are the story of how Britons over two centuries met interacted and attempted or not to understand one another written with an eye to debates about immigration and ethnicity in today's Britain the book emphasizes the long history of making and remaking the island's cultural mosaic the encounter with Britain's native colours has been a burden of history and opportunity for millennia not simply for our own times John Cramsie is associate professor department of history Union College NY

February 1746 the rebel army of Prince Charles Edward Stuart has retreated to the north east of Scotland here they are surrounded by three enemy armies loyal to King George lacking money equipment and food only a decisive victory on the battlefield can turn the tide of the war Lord Kilmarnock's horse grenadiers have earned a reputation for loyalty sculduggery and fortitude now Prince Charles rewards the regiment by promoting them to become his elite guards it is a dangerous honour as the war reaches its climax the grenadiers must fight their deadliest battle yet if the regiment does not stand fast the Jacobite army will be destroyed and the rebellion will be over you behave as a filching freebooter Captain Lindesay one caught in the very act of brigancy brigancy your highness the Irish nobleman turned to address the prince we cannot have our officers behave in such a fashion and in your royal regiment of guards to boot such unworthy behaviour will be the ruin of our reputation and I must counsel that you dismiss Mr Lindesay from his post before the prince could answer Patrick stepped closer to the quartermaster general toe to toe and eye to eye his face was feral patrick curled his lip bared his teeth fingered his pistol the conceited inanity of the fellow was insufferable for a moment the irishman was sure the captain of the grenadiers was about to offer a challenge and propose a duel then to the astonishment of all the bystanders patrick smiled just the smallest upturn of the lips but a veritable and carefree smile none the less and osullivan frowned unsure why the grenadiers anger had turned cold and patricks smile broadened for the canniest of ploys had just come to him
