what is a human being what does it mean to be human how can you lead your life in ways that best fulfil your own nature in the human paradox ralph heintzman explores these vital questions and offers an exciting new vision of the nature of the human the human paradox aims to counter or correct several contemporary assumptions about the nature of the human especially the tendency of western culture since the seventeenth century to identify the human with rationality and the rational mind using the lens of the virtues the human paradox shows how rediscovering the nature of the human can help not just to understand one s own paradoxical nature but to act in ways that are more consistent with its full reality offering accessible insight from both traditional and contemporary thought the human paradox shows how a fuller richer vision of the human can help address urgent contemporary problems including the challenges of cultural and religious diversity human migration and human rights the role of the market artificial intelligence the future of democracy and global climate change this fresh perspective on the western past will guide readers into what it means to be human and open new possibilities for the future explores the origins of humans including how such developments as linnaeus classification system and recent understanding of the human genome have improved scientists comprehension of evolution christine m korsgaard presents an account of the foundation of practical reason and moral obligation moral philosophy aspires to understand the fact that human actions unlike the actions of the other animals can be morally good or bad right or wrong few moral philosophers however have exploited the idea that actions might be morally good or bad in virtue of being good or bad of their kind good or bad as actions just as we need to know that it is the function of the heart to pump blood to know that a good heart is one that pumps blood successfully so we need to know what the function of an action is in order to know what counts as a good or bad action drawing on the work of plato aristotle and kant korsgaard proposes that the function of an action is to constitute the agency and therefore the identity of the person who does it as rational beings we are aware of and therefore in control of the principles that govern our actions a good action is one that constitutes its agent as the autonomous and efficacious cause of her own movements these properties correspond respectively to kant s two imperatives of practical reason conformity to the categorical imperative renders us autonomous and conformity to the hypothetical imperative renders us efficacious and in determining what effects we will have in the world we are at the same time determining our own identities korsgaard develops a theory of action and of interaction and of the form interaction must take if we are to have the integrity that she argues is essential for agency on the basis of that theory she argues that only morally good action can serve the function of action which is self constitution buttrick presents a complete homiletic that focuses on how sermons form in consciousness and how the language of preaching functions in the communal consciousness of a congregation his phenomenological approach marks a sharp departure from older homiletics in this collection of essays outstanding scholars and pastors reflect on the many languages of the catholic liturgy the aural spatial temporal kinetic and iconic which blend together into a single voice a single act of praise
